1. On 13 November 1952, a 57-mm AA gun drawn by six soldiers and truck [redacted] were seen in the Franz Josef Kaserne in St. Poelten (O 49/W 88). The road block at the Boetendorf Strasse - Schiesstattring fork was guarded in the morning by a sentry with black epaulets and, in the afternoon, by a sentry with red-bordered black epaulets. [redacted] about 40 to 50 soldiers in the barracks installation west of Schiesstattring and about 200 soldiers either individually or in small groups in the town but no units marching in formation. Most of the officers and EM had red-bordered black epaulets and a small number had black-bordered red or unbordered black epaulets. A colonel with black-bordered red epaulets was senior officer. Some officers had tank insignia and eight, including a captain, wore red-bordered green collar patches on their overcoats. Truck [redacted] coming from the southern section of the town went toward the barracks installation in Schiesstattring. Motor vehicles going from the barracks installation toward the town included jeep [redacted] and driving school truck [redacted] with nine trainees. The drivers wore red-bordered black epaulets. Sedan [redacted] was also seen. Truck [redacted] driven by soldiers with red-bordered black epaulets went southward. About 25 soldiers with unbordered black epaulets reconditioned the trench walls in the municipal forest west of the barracks installation, while 11 officers with gold epaulets received instruction and a lieutenant and five soldiers with red-bordered black epaulets trained on a gun.
